Two-Day Workshop Cum Training on ORCID GPF Open Access Publishing in Collaboration with IIT Delhi

The significance of open access publishing in academia and research is burgeoning. Embracing this approach can significantly broaden the dissemination of research findings, promote global collaboration, foster innovation, and create a more accessible repository of knowledge for researchers and the public alike. To achieve that, we have planned to organize an ORCID supported workshop cum training sessions among faculty members, research scholars and other students and academic staff of 50 participants of Central University of Odisha and other institutes on 13-14 December 2024 in collaboration with IIT Delhi.

The objectives of the workshop are:

- Provide comprehensive training on the fundamental principles and practical aspects of open-access publishing, UNESCO Values and Principles of Open Science.
- Familiarize participants with various open access models (e.g., gold, green, and hybrid open access), open public licensing (Creative Commons), and resources like the Directory of Open Access Journals (DOAJ), emphasizing ethical standards. (<https://doaj.org/>).
- Enable effective utilization of open publishing platforms such as OJS (Open Journal System), covering installation, journal setup, submission management, peer review, and content publication. (<https://pkp.sfu.ca/software/ojs/>).
- Understanding of ORCID and its API, Integration of ORCID API with OJS.
- Promoting Global Collaboration and Innovation. Foster an environment that encourages networking and collaboration among participants.
